DARLMAN IS DEFEATED FOR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR BUT HE WILL NOT CONCEDE IT--SAYS CARDS STACKED

Friend of Bryan Loses Out Before His Party Primary.

Protsy Carries Vermont by 30,000 in General Election.

Warner Appears to be Defeated in Primary in Michigan.

Stephenson and Davidson Renominated, It Seems.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 2.—Latest primary returns indicate that A. C. Shellenberger, is Democratic nominee for governor, Darlman refuses to concede his defeat. He issued a statement that the cards appear to have been stacked. Governor Sheldon another Republican official were renominated unopposed.

In Michigan.
Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—With three hundred districts missing, J. H. Bradley leads Governor Warner 3,000 for the Republican nomination for governor.

In Wisconsin.
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 2.—Incomplete primary returns indicate that Senator Stephenson was renominated and Governor Davidson renominated unopposed. Democrats nominated Neal Brown for senator and A. A. Myer for governor. Congressman Jenkins, a friend of Cannon and chairman of the Judiciary committee, apparently was defeated.

Protsy's Plurality 30,000.
Huntington, Vt., Sept. 2.—Latest figures give Protsy 43,004 and Burke, Democrat, 13,318. With a few towns missing, Protsy's plurality is estimated at 30,000, which is equal to that of 1904.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—Michigan's first primary election for governor and lieutenant governor resulted on the Republican side in an extremely close contest between Governor Warner and Auditor General Bradley.

Lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket, P. H. Kelly, present incumbent, had no opposition. Lawton T. Hemans, of Mason, had no opposition for Democratic nomination for governor at the state convention.

In the four congressional districts where there were contests for Republican nomination, incomplete returns indicate the renomination of Congressman Gardner in the Third district; Joseph W. Perdue in the Eighth; George A. Lund in the Tenth; and Francis Dadds in the Eleventh to succeed Congressman Darragh. The following Republican congressmen were nominated without opposition: C. E. Townsend, G. J. Diekmann, S. W. Smith, Henry Morrison, J. C. McLaughlin. Republicans in all twelve will nominate congressmen in district conventions.

Nearly complete returns from eleven counties of 83 show the following on the Republican nomination on the Republican nomination for governor:

Bradley, 2,755; Governor Warner, 756; H. S. Earle, 799.

Primary in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 2.—With the polls not closing until 9 o'clock few returns were received from the Nebraska state-wide primary election up to midnight. The few counties which sent in returns left and gave nothing on which to base an estimate of the final result.

Governor Sheldon and several other state officials had no opposition on the Republican ticket and are renominated. In most instances the Democrats had from two to four contestants for many of the office and nothing definite is known as to the outcome on that ticket. Mayor Darlman, of Omaha, who, with former Congressman Shellenberger and C. W. Berge, of Lincoln, were candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor, ran close in many of the counties out in the state.

The Republicans have renominated Congressman Norris, Boyd, Pollard and probably Hinshaw, with the Sixth district not heard from. Congressman Hitecock was renominated by the Democrats of the First district.

ROOSEVELT FOR HUGHES.

Tenth—Wells M. Ruckless, of Melton, Democrat; Elmer A. More, of Antigo, Republican.

Eleventh—S. K. Kondek, of Superior, Democrat; Clive L. Lennett, of Chippewa Falls, Republican.

The returns indicate that United States Senator Stephenson has received the endorsement of the Republicans of the state by several thousand plurality. The Democrats have endorsed Neal Brown, of Wausau.

Bryan's Plans.

Minneapolis, Sept. 2.—Bryan declined to discuss the Vermont election, except to say he doesn't consider it a barometer of the presidential campaign, which has just begun, and Vermont a long distance away. The recent Republican attacks upon him angered Bryan. He announced that he will reply at the New York Democratic state convention at Rochester to "Taft and his scoundrels." His friends assert that he will answer Taft and the charges that Bryan's election would injure prosperity.

Had a Good Name

Mr. T. M. Nance has received word that his grandson, T. M. Leonard, son of Mrs. Lulu Leonard, won a "loving cup" as first prize at the Colorado Springs baby show. The mayor presented the prize to the handsome youngster.

The Concession.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The government has received announcement that the Japanese exposition has been postponed until 1917. A question as to what is to become of the commission the last congress created is raised.

MANY DEATHS IN ENGLISH STORM AND HEAVY LOSS

London, Sept. 2.—Incomplete reports show that 140 persons were killed in yesterday's storm. Fourteen steamers were disabled and 24 sailing craft were lost. There was an enormous property loss.

Mysterious Fires in Tanks.

Alderman W. T. Miller has received the following letter from Attorney George W. Oliver, formerly of this city, but now practicing in Los Angeles, N. M.:

"I notice in the Paducah papers that the question as to whether the Standard Oil company shall be compelled to remove its oil tanks away from the present location is up before the council. I write you to state that oil tanks at Albuquerque, New Mexico, and Trinidad, in this territory, belonging to the Continental Oil company, have been burned during the present year, accompanied by loss of other property. The cause of the fires appear to be a mystery, though I think not attributable to any external causes. The facts can be obtained by writing either of these towns."

Standard Oil Company Must Move Tanks Mile Outside Limits of the City According to New Ordinance

Committee of General Council Decides to Follow Regulations of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Protect Citizens.

The Standard Oil company must move its storage tanks, containing many hundred gallons of oil, outside of the city limits from its present quarters, Tenth and Monroe street.

In view of the fact that the city was placed in jeopardy several weeks ago from a spark of a passing locomotive, the ordinance committee drafted an ordinance last night making it a violation of law to store the oil in great quantities in the city or locating the tanks less than a mile from the city limits.

City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., wrote to several cities and secured copies of ordinances, regulating the storage of oil. The ordinance of Fort Wayne, Ind., was followed as a model. These barrels, containing 50 gallons each, may be stored inside the city limits, but only one barrel may be kept in a store room at once. The remaining two barrels must be stored in a vault five feet beneath the surface, and must be fire proof.

The storage tanks of oil companies must be located a mile outside the city limits, and the construction of the buildings must be approved by the general council. The penalty for a violation of the ordinance is a fine of $50 to $100. The ordinance was prepared by the committee last night after careful consideration, and will be presented to the general council for first passage next Monday.

Protsy's Nominate.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The Rev. George Stockwell was nominated for governor of New York by the Protsy.

REVIVES MAN AND DECLARES THAT ALL ELECTROCUTED PERSONS ARE POISONED

Doctor Makes Sensational Proposition to Revive Every Man Legally Executed in New York.

New York, Sept. 2.—After reviving a laborer supposedly killed by electricity Dr. Peter Gibbons created a sensation by declaring that no person executed in New York or New Jersey by electricity was killed. Gibbons gives the case of the negro Taylor, who died in Auburn prison after electrocution. Authorities are forced to kill them with poisons. Gibbons petitioned the state officers for permission to revive any man legally electrocuted to prove that death does not result.

Infant Dies.

Frances Margaret, the five and a half months' old infant of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hovenkamp, three miles out on the Husbands road, died this morning. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at the St. Francis de Sales church. The burial will be in the Mt. Carmel cemetery. Two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Hovenkamp lost their infant son, the twin of Frances Margaret.

Money Missing--Arrested

Frank Grundy, colored, was arrested by Patrolman Henry Singery on a charge of grand larceny. It is alleged that Willie Toliver, a colored restaurant man, hid a roll of $45 in the bed. Grundy was the only one that knew of the presence of the money, and now the coin is missing. The warrant was sworn out, but Grundy denies having part in the deal. No money was found on him.

INVESTIGATION OF CORRUPTION AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Kan., Sept. 2.—Wholesale investigation of county officials is expected as a result of Governor Hoch's determination to take in hand the troubles of Assistant Attorney General Trickett, who was convicted of malfeasance. The Civil league charges that liquor and gambling interests procured Trickett's conviction through a conspiracy. Hoch has ordered the attorney general to investigate and sensational developments are expected.

Potato Bugs Stop Traffic.

Bristol, Conn., Sept. 2.—Potato bugs on the rails at Lazy Lane stalled eight trolley cars laden with excursionists bound to Lake Compounce today. In spite of the terrible slaughter, the bugs held possession of the tracks until the car men could sand the track.

Another Vandevillian

New York, Sept. 2.—Hayes, winner of the Marathon race, has accepted an offer to appear in vaudeville. He begins Monday night and will wear his running suit and tell the story of the race. He probably will tour the country.

CONTRIBUTORS TO GLASS PLANT ASK SOMETHING BACK

The Paducah Commercial club has filed a petition before Referee in Bankruptcy E. W. Bagby, asking that the club be allowed a lien on 10 per cent of the $123,000 invested by the bankrupt Paducah Glass company, which will amount to $12,300. It is recited in the petition that a contract was made December 7, 1906, between the Commercial club and H. M. Finley, of the Paducah Glass company, that the club would give $15,000 to the plant. When the material was placed on the ground $5,000 was paid, $5,000 was paid when the building was completed and $5,000 when completed. Finley agreed to expend for the manufacture of glass and the erection of the buildings $150,000. After the club had paid $12,500, it is recited, the firm ceased operations and took the bankrupt law. The petition alleges that the contract of the Commercial club was overlooked in the proceedings. While building and operating $123,000 was expended and the Commercial club wants a lien of 10 per cent of that sum or $12,300.

ANOTHER FIRE AT MURRAY CAUSES PANIC OF GUESTS

Restaurant Under Hotel Discovered Ablaze at Early Hour This Morning.

Caught in Front End Where There is No Stove.

OWNED FOR LAW AND ORDER

Murray, Ky., Sept. 2. (Special.)—Another fire of mysterious origin was discovered at 3 o'clock this morning in Schroat's restaurant on the lower floor of the Murray Hotel building, and $500 damage was done before the flames were extinguished by the valiant bucket brigade. The hotel building is in the same block that was fired Saturday morning and was thought to have been doomed, but was saved together with three other buildings adjoining.

The discovery of the fire in this building by one of the guests of the hotel, which occupies the second and third floors, caused a panic among the guests, who were aroused from their slumbers to find the house full of smoke, while the roaring of the flames in the lower floors could be heard. Men and women rushed pell-mell out of the building, carrying whatever belongings they could gather.

The fire broke out in the front part of the restaurant where there was no stove.

The building is owned by the Rev. W. J. Heale, a Baptist minister, who has on several occasions publicly expressed himself as being opposed to night riding. At a speaking in a school house on the east side of the county, one speaker is said to have made the statement that the Rev. Heale, who was at that time conducting a meeting in a church nearby, was there for the purpose of organizing a law and order club and should be driven out.

Some people who take the view that the fires that have visited Murray recently are neither accidental or caused by night riders, but that someone lives in Murray who is crazy on the subject of fires and buildings are fired by that person. The "spell" seems to come periodically.

Murray has no fire protection but J. C. Speight, of Mayfield, was here yesterday to make a proposition to the city council for a franchise to put in a water works system. Mr. Speight is said to represent capitalists who are anxious to invest in such a system if the right sort of a franchise is offered for sale.

PERJURY IS CHARGED AND SUBORNATION OF PERJURY IN CALLOWAY WARRANTS

Will Ingram Swears He Made Statement Under Threat of Death if He Disobeyed Command.

ALLEN WEATHERFORD, PETER KIRK AND JASPER GARLAND ACCUSED OF INDUCING HIS PUBLICATION.

Important Witness in Jake Ellis Case Becomes Center of More Prosecutions.

Murray, Ky., Sept. 2. (Special.)—Will Ingram, who published a statement that his night rider confession was false and procured by duress, is under arrest on the charge of perjury, and warrants have been issued for the arrest of Jasper Garland, Allen Weatherford and Dr. Peter Kirk on the charge of subornation of perjury.

Ingram, when arrested, made a second confession, in which he said that he was forced to publish the deal under threat of death, and he named the three men for whom warrants were sworn out, as threatening him.

Ingram made a confession at Otter Pond to Captain Walker, a militia officer, and testified in the trial of Jake Ellis. He said he was a night rider and his testimony resulted in the indictment of Kelsie Kirk, Jasper Garland, Bob Dunne and Ed Thompson, for participating in the raid on Hendrick's place.

Last week Ingram published a denial of his confession in the Murray Ledger and declared that Judge Wells and Clarence Dyer, an enemy of the night riders, extorted the confession from him.

In his confession, made before Magistrate Holland, Ingram says that part of the conspiracy was to impeach Judge Wells on his statement. Ingram said that while he was working in the woods, Weatherford and Garland visited him and told him that unless he published a statement in the Murray Ledger, countering the facts of his own confession and impeaching Judge Wells, he would not live three weeks. They told him, he said, that they would put Judge Wells off his seat.

Ingram said then he went to the home of Dr. Peter Kirk, father of Kelsie Kirk, and Kirk told him what to say and repeated the threat. He says he also was admonished to begin at once spreading the report that his confession was not genuine.

Ingram's hearing will be tomorrow morning.

Miss Hargis Here.

Miss Lulu Hargis, head nurse at Riverside hospital, is visiting at the hospital today on her way from her home in Indiana, where she has been visiting, to California. Miss Hargis has been granted a leave of absence until the first of the year. The remainder of her vacation she will spend in the west.

Omaha Murder Mystery.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 2.—Mystery surrounds the shooting of Dr. Frederick Rustin, the most prominent physician in the city, who was found dying inside his front door of a wound in the abdomen. He died in an hour. No weapon was found and police reject the suicide theory and believe it was murder. His wife told several conflicting stories, regarding finding her husband and police are investigating.

W. S. Crane Dismissed.

W. S. Crane alias Meyers, who was arrested in Cairo on a charge of grand larceny, was dismissed in police court this morning. The warrant was sworn out by the Palmer Transfer company, which alleged that Crane secured a horse and buggy under pretenses, and the buggy was not returned but was found the next day on South First street. The question of taking the buggy brought up a lively point, and after a discussion it was dismissed this morning by Judge Cross.

VOTE SLIGHTLY

Vermont Gives 1,500 Smaller Majority to Republicans.

Both Old Parties Felt Shump in Vote But Not Sufficient to Show a Change.

MITCHELL GREATLY PLEASED

White River Junction, Vt., Sept. 1.—The Republicans won the election in Vermont by carrying that state for Lieutenant Governor Prouty, of Newport, for governor by about 28,000 votes over James E. Burke, of Burlington, his Democratic opponent, which is 1,500 less of a majority than in 1904. It was larger than 1888 and only slightly less than 1900. There was a falling off in the four years of about 8 per cent in the Republican vote, while the Democratic vote fell off 2 per cent.

The Independence League appeared for the first time and polled about 1,000 votes, while the Prohibition and Socialist vote remained about the same. The Democrats make some gains in the lower branch of the legislature.

As Vermont was the first state to vote during the presidential campaign there was much interest throughout the country in the size of the Republican plurality.

The Republicans retained complete control of the legislative and executive branches of the government, elected to congress from the First district, David J. Foster, of Burlington, for another term, and from the Second district, Frank Plumley, of Northfield, for the first time, and choosing a majority of the legislature which will select a successor to the late Senator Proctor.

The Republican majority in the next house will be considerably reduced. The voters were urged to support the Republican ticket by speakers of national importance who stumped the state during the past two weeks, discussing the issue which will be heard in other parts of the country this fall.

On the other hand the Democrats fought the battle alone. James E. Burke, of Burlington, formerly known as the "blacksmith mayor" of that city, who headed the ticket, having only local talent in his support.

Prouty expressed himself as pleased with the result. He reserved his statement until more complete returns are available.

Burke said: "From the returns received by me, I claim Prouty's majority will be under 25,000."

At 11:30 Prouty stated that he figured his plurality at 28,818 over Burke, and believed that missing towns would bring it up to 30,000.

MITCHELL Pleased.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Chairman Mitchell, of the Republican national committee, expressed gratification over the result of the Vermont election and said that in his opinion it presaged Republican success in November. He called attention to the fact that the plurality was only about 1,500 less than in the election four years ago when Roosevelt was elected, while the total vote was reported eight per cent smaller.

"The roast beef of old England" may again be purely English, or at any rate British. It is pointed out that Scotland produces more than enough cattle to feed its own people, and Ireland produces many times enough, while England herself has about enough for home consumption. The United Kingdom had in 1906 no fewer than 11,674,019 head of cattle, while New Zealand had only 1,736,850, Australia and Tasmania only 7,602,024, and the six continental countries of Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland only 10,149,378. If the domestic supply were utilized at home, it is argued, exports might be abolished and the United Kingdom might so far as meat is concerned become self-sustaining.—New York Tribune.

RATTLESNAIN INFEST THE HOUSES.

Women in Mountain Homes Have Many Thrilling Encounters.

The Barclay Mountain district is plagued by rattlesnakes. The presence of fies in the woods for several seasons have given the rattlesnakes an opportunity to multiply, and there have been some thrilling encounters with them.

Mrs. Michael McMahon found a rattlesnake curled up behind the kitchen stove and killed the snake with a broom. It measures nearly five feet and had eleven rattles on.

The following day a neighbor of the McMahons went to the hen house to gather eggs. The woman slipped her hand in through the opening of the nest and came in contact with something cold and slimy. She withdrew her hand and a moment later the head of a rattlesnake was thrust out at her almost touching her face. Her screams brought help. The snake measured four and a half feet.

Mrs. Michael Jenkins, residing near Barclay, saw what she thought was one of her daughter's hair ribbons on the floor. She stooped to pick it up, when to her horror the thing wriggled up in a heap. It was a rattlesnake measuring nearly three feet.

A berry-picker in the Lenoira district killed five rattlesnakes in one day.

A man named Manson residing on an isolated place in the same section lost eleven young chicks and more than that number of chicks. One morning he saw a rattlesnake come out from under the snake house and seize a chick and then crawl back out of sight. He and his boys tried to smoke the snake up and under it they found a colony of six rattlesnakes. Three of them were in a large state of being to their gorged condition upon the young poultry. Towards (Pa.) Telegram to Philadelphia Record

Cat Characteristics.

Cats, rather than belong to a new master, will cling tightly to the old walls and refuse to be taken away from them. But if they can follow their master they will go with him to the end of the world. One must not forget that they are extraordinarily nervous and timid, and from timidity easily lose their heads and run away. They themselves know not whether they must be well protected and made to feel that they are guarded and cared for. We must not, however, expect a cat to obey like a dog. It is a free and independent little beast—a cousin of the lion—a tropical animal which needs great warmth in order to become most beautiful and as large as its nature permits.—Carmen Sylva's "My Kittens" in August Century.

Curious Methods of Stealing Gold.

The problem, "How to graze with the gold stealer," is as old as the company mining in Australia. In the early days Cuthrie Jack was as good as his master—in fact, ninety-nine cases out of a hundred he was his master—and even if wages men were called in to help work a rich gutter, the diggers of the conning dink were shrewd worrying their heads, or their "hands," over a few penny ounces. Then a days gold was plentiful, and the idea of proprietary rights in the treasure dug from God's free soil was only a faintly entertained. Nobody knew how the gold came there, and the general impression was that it belonged to that man who got a hand on it and managed to make way with it.

I can confidently assert that among old Victorian miners thirty years ago gold stealing on the job by the face-man, leechman or trickster was regarded as tenderly in the light of a moral wrong as the average healthy small boy regards his pickings and stealings in Brown's apple orchard.

To the best of my recollection and belief, the dishonor and glory of introducing the searcher into Victorian mining belongs to combative "Capt. Tommy," who passed away "on change" in Melbourne the other day, in the odor of opulence, but who, at the time mentioned was fighting man after of the Gilding Star in Ballarat West. Of course the appearance of the searcher occasioned uproar and battery. All sorts and conditions of miners resented the innovation. The miner who was not above picking and stealing, found the searcher an on-tion, while the gorge of the miner rose at the thought of being pawed over like a Kaffir. The managers and directors came in for much abuse, but vengeance in a more emphatic form fell upon the unhappy searcher. He was despicable in the first place. It was the delight of the miners to bring his ignominy home to him, to rob it in, and their constant study to add to his pains and penalties.

"The Lark" who searched us at the H. H., a big alluvial mine near Ballarat, was a representative specimen. He was tall and thin, yellow dark and silent. "The Lark" kept in the middle of the changing room at 8 in the morning, 1 in the afternoon and at midnight, and facemen, truckers, platemen and bracken off shift stopped in his presence, and threw their wet working clothes at him. He examined the clothes, shook out crib bags, and peered into billows, and all the time was subjected to a running fire of derision and a series of attacks which would have made the office intolerable to a healthy, adult with the spirit of a vine dog. Sloppy, clay-laden trouser legs were swiped across his face, flying boots hit him anywhere; hissing hot spiles fell into his clutches. He dug his hands into pockets, and had his fingers pierced by candleholders, the spiles of which had been purposely ground to needle points. No joke was too dirty to play upon the poor wretch.

The searcher might be excusable if he were effective, but he did not prevent gold stealing. He merely exposed the methods. Miners discovered and invented simple, quaint and curious methods of outwitting John C. The hardened snoker's first resort is to his pipe when the signal for the "knock-off" resounds in stores and drives. The pipe, as a means of conveying stolen gold from the company's gutter to the miner's home cache, is now a played out device, but many thousands of pounds' worth of gold changed places under the tobacco the Cornishman and the Tyne-rider smoked between ulge and Broadsides.

Again, there was the trick of the hollow boot-heel. It did not call for much ingenuity in a cobbler to make a hollow in the heel of a stout working boot, with access to the secret chamber from the inside under a stout lace, the heel-end of which fitted like a flap. When Jack or Ernie discovered a bit of gold in the dirt, he set it aside for his own use, and seized the first opportunity of slipping off a boot and hiding the nugget in his cunning little calf deposit in the course of some ten

NIGHT NURSE

Kept in Perfect Trim by Right Food.

Nursing the sick is often very burdensome to the nurse. Night nursing is liable to be even more exhausting from the fact that the demands of the system for sleep are more urgent during the night hours.

A Va. lady, called on to act as night nurse in the family, found the greatest support from the use of Grape-Nuts food. She says: "Our acquaintance with Grape-Nuts began eight years ago. We bought the first package sold in this place, and although we began as skeptics we became converts to its striking food value."

"I used Grape-Nuts first, to sustain me when doing night nursing for a member of the family. I ate a teaspoonful at a time and by slowly chewing it I was able to keep awake and feel no fatigue."

"Soon I grew to like Grape-Nuts very much and after our patient recovered I was surprised to find that it was not all 'worn out' on account of broken rest. My nerves were strong and steady and my digestion fine. This was the more surprising because I had always suffered with weak nerves and indigestion. My experience was so satisfactory that other members of the family took up Grape-Nuts with like results."

"There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

years' experience I met with many miners who were never down-at-heel, as a result of this wise provision. As they say in America, they were always "well housed."

Nuggets were carried off in patches of clay and candle ends, dropped negligently into blankets, to be collected when opportunistly offered. I remember a big Californian at Ballarat who wore a leather wrist belt for years, and, only abandoned it when an inquisitive shift boss discovered a slot in it containing a half-ounce slug that had been hammered flat with a pickhead.

The prison authorities banned bracelets or any kind of personal ornament not stipulated in the sentence. An Irishman trucking at Ballarat, blessed with a thick mop of curly red hair, had a space at the back of his head about the size of a penny shaved clean and fitted with a false patch that was merely a handy little receptacle for any trifle of course gold that showed out in the truck.

Often when a good patch was stuck in the face no immediate attempt was made to get away with the discoverer's share of the treasure. The miners, acting on the principles of "first come first served," helped themselves to what they considered a fair thing and hid the gold about the workings, to be carried off as opportunity offered. At one rich mine near Durack quite a little treasure trove was found in an abandoned level where it must have been stowed away by workmen, who were content, possibly, to wait years for the chance of recovering the loot. The management made no noise about this joyful discovery, but an entire change of staff was made with all convenient dispatch.

WANTS UNION FOR METHODISM.

North Missouri Conference of Church South Votes Unanimously.

Hannibal, Mo., Sept. 2.—The North Missouri conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south here adopted resolutions taking a strong stand for union of all Methodism. The committee's report, which was adopted unanimously, petitions the general conference of the Methodist church south to invite a conference of representatives of the three Methodist churches with reference to their union, and also petitions the general conference to consider practical suggestions for organic unity of three churches under one governmental body or for territorial adjustment of the one Methodist church into two or more jurisdictional divisions.

The Soul Smile. What charm there is in a smile, yet what a rarity these days! Many of us, especially women, have lost the art. We have smiled so much and so often to order, from a sense of duty, that now the charming spontaneity of the act has entirely disappeared.

A smile to be worth anything must not be a continuous performance. The habitual smile of society is totally devoid of charm from its unchanging and unbroken quality. It has no more meaning than a mask, like which it may be removed at will.

What do society masks know, those who are called bright, animated, sparkling, of the genuine, unstrained smile? demands the New York Evening Sun. When the sun breaks out of a cloudy sky, then the heavens brighten. So with the sudden light irradiating a grave and tender face is to glow that counts, the flash that is irresistible.

Many a demure little mouse of a woman reserves love where the brilliant society favorite must be satisfied with admiration, all because some man has been caught by the thrill of the soul smile. It is a gift of the gods. Just as beauty is of pleasing voice.

TOBACCO NEWS

Louisville, Sept. 2.—During the month business in the local leaf tobacco market was extremely dull. Sales aggregated only 7,732 hogheads—1,740 by auction and 6,002 privately—which compares with 8,270 in the corresponding month of last year, 10,268 in 1906 and 9,841 in 1905. No doubt it would be necessary to go back many years further to find an August in which sales were so small. For the first eight months of this year sales amounted to 87,201 hogheads, against 90,535 last year, 113,494 in 1906 and 106,194 in 1905. August sales comprised 890 hogheads of last year's crop of Burley, 860 old Burley, 806 last year's dark crop and 167 old dark. Rejections during the month averaged 25 per cent of sales by auction, against 17 per cent in the like months of last year and 1906. Of last year's crop 72,528 hogheads have been sold in the local market, against 87,321 hogheads of the 1906 crop to this date last year and 111,481 of the 1905 crop to this date in 1906.

Receipts in August were 4,302 hogheads and deliveries 3,867, there being a gain in stocks of 935 hogheads. Last year there was a gain in stocks during August of 3,527. Stocks at the close of business were 24,491 hogheads, comparing with 26,030 last year, 17,407 in 1906 and 24,082 in 1905. Unsold stocks amounted to 18,782 hogheads, of which 8,520 were Society of Equity Burley, 5,239 free Burley, 5,402 Green River and 1,691 dark. At the close of August last year unsold stocks aggregated 17,410 hogheads—5,865 free Burley, 9,970 Green River and 1,575 dark.

Notice to Patrons of the Guthrie Ave. Car Line.

During the period of reconstruction just begun on Broadway between Ninth and Eleventh streets, the company expects to be able to operate cars over this section. This will be done at considerable extra trouble and expense to both the company and the traveling contractor. In order to avoid transfer of passengers it will be necessary to discontinue running Guthrie avenue cars between First street and Fountain avenue during a portion of this period of reconstruction. Former patrons of Guthrie avenue cars will now be transferred to and from Broadway cars to Fountain avenue.

Broadway cars leave Broadway and First street on the even hour and every 20 and 40 minutes thereafter.

SNAKES IN FLOOD TIMES.

Found in Great Numbers in Trees and Higher Land.

A visitor over in the bottoms now who has not thought about anything but the high water would get a shock of surprise when he landed on any of the higher spots of land which were submerged during the recent floods. On every hand are snakes, wriggling, slimy, cold-blooded serpents, which make one's flesh crawl.

Thousands of the reptiles have taken refuge on these spots of dry land. As is well known, snakes cannot remain long in water, as they are not amphibious, and at this season of the year they soon become helpless with the cold if immersed in the turbid waters of the floods. If unable to reach a dry spot they warm themselves upon the limbs of trees, climbing higher and higher as the water advances. Old fishermen traversing the brush land are wary of passing under trees now, as the slimy brutes are liable to drop from their slithering on slight disturbance.

The railroad embankments are favorite places of refuge for them, as the steel rails radiate the heat so much desired by the reptiles. Just now there is every class of them, black snakes, garter snakes, water moccasins, the latter perhaps as dead as any known to science, with numerous rattlesnakes, vipers and the like.—Pittsfield Republican.

Love is as necessary to a woman who has acquired the habit as tobacco is to a man.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

County Court Clerk.

City Jailer.
 The Sun is authorized to announce Wado Brown a candidate for reelection to the office of city jailer, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Daily Thought.
 Don't be too busy to care for your health; or to say the kindly word, do the kindly deed.

Now that the full estimate of damages to Springfield, Ill., and the peace of society generally is obtainable, Mrs. Earl Hallam declares that George Richardson, in an attempt to lynch whom the recent riots were started, is not the negro guilty of assaulting her, and a warrant has been issued for another person.

Vermont went Republican with her usual majority, and everybody was about as much surprised as were Messrs. Taft and Bryan when the notification committees announced the glad tidings of their nominations. It is a great advantage the Republican prognosticators have over the Democrats. Texas should arrange to have a state election along in September in presidential years, just to cheer the boys along the way.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.
 We are glad to see the school board facing the financial situation boldly and putting the matter right up to the people. It was not the fault of this board that the schools are in so deplorable financial straits and we hope those trustees will stand by the schools until they see the situation through. It is thankless work and full of annoyances, but such sacrifices are demanded in a free country, and the laches of one citizen are no excuse for another.

Two lessons have been learned: not to build before the money is available, and not to spend the income from the state and city taxes for anything, excepting salaries. The levy and the per capita appropriation should be held sacred for teachers' salaries. When we need buildings and supplies, we will figure out some other way of getting them.

It is well, perhaps, that all this trouble came at once. Paducah people have been guilty of gross carelessness and inattention to their schools, and they are paying the bill of damages. It always falls finally on the people who are responsible, and the responsible parties are always the people who "vote the ticket straight" and "haven't time for such things."

When we get the financial complication straightened out, we must get to the legislature and have the school board reduced to five men, elected from the city at large. Twelve men are too many for such a board. It is almost impossible now to get a quorum, because the responsibility is so divided, that each feels if he remains away there are enough others to attend to the business. A few men do most of the work. One of the prolific sources of trouble with a large board is the tendency to develop factions. Usually in such a large number of men there are found two or more, who desire to be leaders, and the many who want to lead, would just as leave lead a minority as a majority. Then, too, there is the sensitive man, and if the superintendent or promoter of any project fails to consult all twelve of the trustees, he has incurred the hostility of those, who consider themselves ignored, not only as to that proposition but as to all future contingencies.

All that The Sun says on this subject, must not be considered a criticism of the present board, which is efficient and faithful; but the demand of the hour is small boards and big men.

"The night riders are beginning to think that all's well that ends Wells." —Hopkinsville Kentucky New Era.

THE OLD STORY.

"Saturday morning's fire loss would put in a very nice system of water works," slyly suggests the Calloway County Times. It's the same old story of humanity's failings. Proper life saving equipment would have saved a thousand lives on the steamer Schoonin; decent observance of the law would have saved thousands in the Inglewood theater fire and the Collinwood school fire, regard for well known laws of sanitation would have prevented the plague of fever that devastated the south years ago, and would save hundreds of lives annually. Yet we have buildings improperly equipped with fire escapes, and dwell in unsanitary surroundings, with dirty alleys, lack of sewer connections, and broken hydrants emptying their contents into the reum leached muck of dead level gutters.

Yes, if we spent in preventatives one-tenth what a catastrophe costs us, we would all be healthier, wealthier and happier. But we won't.

SANITATION IN SCHOOLS.

Dr. Elghts is right in insisting on sewer connections for the school buildings. The question of funds in this instance is not the vital one; human lives are at stake. Ordinarily, where such numbers are congregated in one building, sanitary conditions may be counted on for two or three deaths annually; and we still cling to the old fashioned notion that human life is more precious than wealth or learning. Secular education will count for little in the next world, and it is better that the children's lives should be spared, than that they should be enured. Some infection from unsanitary conditions is bound to find a receptive condition in some child. Patrons of the schools are left to wonder whose child it will be, and whether infection will not be spread to others not attending the school. Possibly some parent, who spent considerable money for sanitary conveniences at home, might see his child die from fever incurred in an unsanitary school. That would be the irony of fate. If we cannot have sanitary schools now, let us close them until we can. If the health department insists, however, we rather think the general council will rush to the rescue. The money for the malfeasance of the city departments and the city schools all comes from the same source, anyhow, so it makes little difference to the public at large.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE.

"Ennobling grief seasons the brash soul," exclaims an exchange. "It requires great sorrow to attune the heart strings to the world kinship of universal harmony. Art demands a sacrifice. Too often with unconscious brutality we pass over unrevealed melodies that in a day shall be brought to light through some convulsion of the soul, as the earthquake exposes the riven seam of precious gold."

Consider the cat. The cat wants to sing—the cat thinks it can sing; but even when wailing with impassioned ardor of love's wildest ecstasy, under the spell of the pale crescent moon, with the witching stillness of midnight all about and the fragrance of sweet honeysuckle from the garden wall arising like incense from the burning theme of its heart's desire, the notes of the Tom Cat, floating on the circumambient atmosphere, carry no message but that of insomnia, and arouse hideous impulses, that reveal a side of human nature we may contemplate only with apprehensive horror.

Yet the attenuated remains of that same Tom Cat, stretched the length of an old fiddle box and rubbed with a bunch of horse hairs, will give back a melody, incomparable in sweetness and precision, that will cause to vibrate, in sympathy with its dulcet notes, heart strings so long mute that their very existence was doubted.

The cat was there all the time, and the music; but it required a tragedy to produce the sound—not the ordinary vicissitudes of the town cat's amours; but the great sacrifice that art demands.

THE JOKESMITH.

The laugh may come hard, but even a sickly smile is a better youth-keeper than tears.

Do you know of anything that is more unfriendly than friendly criticism?

One of the first things an art student should learn to draw is his own conclusions.

A shiftless man in a small town either harbors a lot of worthless dogs or plays a fiddle.

The Port of Missing Men.

"Because I have a pledge to keep and a work to do, and if I were forced to defend myself from the charge of being the false Baron von Kisel everything would be spoiled. You see, unfortunately—most unfortunately—I am not quite without responsibilities, and I have come down into the mountains, where I hope not to be shot and tossed over a precipice until I have had time to watch certain people and certain events for a little while. I tried to say as much to Captain Claiborne, but I saw that my story did not impress him. And now I have said the same thing to you."

He waited, gravely watching her, but in hand.

"And I have stood here and listened to you and done exactly what Captain Claiborne would not wish me to do under any circumstances," said Shirley.

"You are infinitely kind and generous."

"No, I do not wish you to think me either of those things of course not!" Her conclusion was abrupt and pointed.

"Then?"

"Then I will tell you—what I have not told any one else—that I know very well that you are not the person who appeared at Bar Harbor three years ago and named himself off as the Baron von Kisel."

"You know it—you are quite sure of it?" he asked blankly.

"Certainly. I saw that person at Bar Harbor. I had gone up from Newport for a week—I was even at a tea where he was quite the lion, and I am sure you are not the same person."

Her direct manner of speech, her decisive tone, in which she placed the matter of his identity on a purely practical and unsentimental plane, gave him a new impression of her character.

But Captain Claiborne—

He ceased suddenly and she anticipated the question at which he had faltered and answered, a little telly:

"I do not consider it any of my business to meddle in your affairs with my brother. He undoubtedly believes you are the impostor who named himself off at Bar Harbor as the Baron von Kisel. He was told so."

"By M. Chauveaud?"

"So he said."

"And of course he is a capital witness. There is no doubt of Chauveaud's entire credibility," declared Armitage, a little airily.

"I should say not," said Shirley unresponsively. "I am quite as sure that he was not the false baron as I am that you were not."

Armitage laughed.

"That is a little pointed."

"It was meant to be," said Shirley sternly. "It is"—she weighed the word—"ridiculous that both of you should be here."

"Thank you for my half! I didn't know he was here! But I am not exactly here—I have a much safer place."

He swept the blue billed horizon with his hand. "M. Chauveaud and I will not shoot at each other in the hotel dining room. But I am really relieved that he has come. We have an interesting fashion of running into each other. It would positively grieve me to be obliged to wait long for him."

He smiled and thrust his hat under his arm. The sun was dropping behind the great western baricade, and a chill wind crept sharply over the valley.

He started to walk beside her as she turned away, but she paused abruptly.

"Oh, this won't do at all! I can't be seen with you, even in the shadow of my own house. I must trouble you to take the side gate," and she indicated it by a nod of her head.

"Not if I know myself! I am not a fraudulent member of the German nobility—you have told me so yourself. Your conscience is clear. I assure you mine is equally so. And I am not a person, Miss Claiborne, to sneak out by side gates, particularly when I am aware of the fence. It's a long way around anyhow, and I have a horse over there somewhere by the inn."

"My brother?"

"Is at Fort Myer, of course. At about this hour they are having dress parade, and he is thoroughly occupied."

"But—there is M. Chauveaud. He has nothing to do but amuse himself."

They had reached the veranda steps, and she ran to the top and turned for a moment to look at him. He still carried his hat and crop in one hand and had dropped the other into the side pocket of his coat. He was wholly at ease, and the wind ruffled his hair and gave him a boyish look that Shirley liked. But she had no wish to be found with him, and she instantly and discreetly dismissed him and turned away to go into the house, when he detained her for a moment.

"I am perfectly willing to afford M. Chauveaud all his legitimate entertainment. We are bound to have many meetings. I am afraid he reached this charming valley before me; but, as a rule, I prefer to be a little ahead of him. It's a whim, the merest whim. I assure you."

He laughed, thinking little of what he said, but delighting in the picture she made, the tall pillars of the veranda framing her against the white wall of the house and the architrave high above speaking, so he thought, for the amplitude, the breadth of her nature. Her green cloth gown afforded the happiest possible contrast with the white background, and her hat—for a gown, let us remember, may express

CAN'T IDENTIFY

NEGRO WOMAN SPRINGFIELD MOVED TO LYNCH.

Woman Who Charges Her Mind Before Grand Jury and Trouble May Be Result.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 2.—The latest statement of Mrs. Hallam that she can't identify the negro Richardson as her assailant, which caused the riots, promises to make trouble. The woman had the grand jury once she could identify him positively. She now withdraws and doctors report it a madness, impossibility that Richardson was her assailant. The grand jury, it is said, and summoned Hallam and his wife and may seek to punish them for conflicting statements.

He lost the profile and gained her face, as he liked it best, though her head was lifted a little high in resentment against her own yielding curiosity. He was speaking rapidly, and the slight hint of some other tongue than his usually fluent English arrested her ear now, as it had at other times.

She instantly nodded his dissent, which man to appear—it was really the oldest thing in the world that almost immediately M. Jules Chauveaud arrived at mine own inn. It is inevitable. It is always sure to be my fate, he concluded mournfully.

He bowed low, restored the shabby hat to his head with the least bit of a flourish and strolled away through the garden to a broad walk that led to the front gate.

He would have been interested to know that when he was out of sight Shirley walked to the veranda rail and bent forward, listening to his steps on the gravel, after the hedge and shrubbery had hidden him. And she stood thus until the faint click of the gate told her he had gone.

She did not know that as the gate closed upon him he met Chauveaud face to face.

MAY KILL ANDREWS

NEGRO THAT TURNED UP JESSE COE RETURNS HOME.

Gets Warning to Leave Neighborhood at Once, as His Life is in Danger.

Glasgow, Ky., Sept. 2.—Sheriff J. E. Bryant and wife, accompanied by Claude Andrews, the negro who betrayed Jesse Coe into the hands of officers, arrived here last evening and stayed over night in Glasgow and will leave for their homes in Tompkinsville.

The strain on Andrews during his stay in Indianapolis for the past few days has told on him and he seems considerably worried and has but little to say to anyone.

After the report was circulated here that Andrews was in town there was much dissatisfaction among the negroes, and when a short time later it was learned that two of Jesse Coe's brothers were also here awaiting the arrival of the remains of Jesse Coe from Indianapolis, there was much excitement and the officers, who were already on the alert, carried Andrews to a place of safety until he could be gotten out of town. It is being reported that a number of blacks worked hard trying to form a mob, but were baffled by the disappearance of Andrews.

The remains of Jesse Coe are expected to reach here today, when they will be carried to Coe Ridge for interment.

All kinds of rumors are about as to what the Coes are aiming to do after the burial of Jesse, but just how much is true is not known, but those who know their disposition and the history of the family say this is only the beginning of another trouble. The people were surprised that Andrews came back home, and his friends have warned him to go elsewhere, as his life is now in danger.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson.

Mrs. Johnson was so much of an invalid that outside of intimate family friends very few knew her. She appeared only twice in public during her husband's administration. Still, her influence was a strong one, and it was exerted in the direction of toleration and gentleness. A slight movement of her hands, a touch on her husband's arm, a "Now Andrews," made it easy to see that the woman who had helped him through his struggling youth, and given her health to his service, who had taught him to write and had read to him through long winter evenings in his little tailor shop that his active mind might be fed while he was practicing his trade, still held her place in his life. She was a sweet-faced woman who showed traces of beauty through the sharpened lines caused by the old-fashioned consumption which was wearing her out. Her face was not unlike that of the late Mrs. McKinley. The death of her eldest son was a blow from which she never fully recovered. The life in Washington was not a happy time for her. She told me herself that she was far more content when her husband was an industrious young tailor—From William H. Crook's "Reminiscences of Andrew Johnson in the White House," in the September Century.

Smoking and the Voice.

It has always been one of the arguments of those who have tried to dissuade us from the habit of smoking that pipes, cigars and cigarettes injured the voice. But on this subject Sir Charles Santley, who may surely be considered an authority, writes that he found smoking in moderation made his voice clear, and that he has never known more than two or three indifferent singers who did not smoke. The only drawback to this statement is that it will tend to increase the number of men who try to sing. It must be remembered, however, that it is only moderate smoking which has no harmful effect on the voice. There is no doubt at all that to smoke excessively is to injure one's chances of singing well. The voice, as a matter of fact, is one of the best possible tests of moderation in smoking.—London Globe.

BRYAN MEN QUITE INDIGNANT AT IT

Posthumous Publication of Cleveland Article.

John H. Atwood, of the National Committee, writes Cleveland S. Hastings.

AN OFFICIAL REPLY IS MADE.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—A formal reply to the article attributed to former President Grover Cleveland, as printed throughout the country Sunday morning, came from the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee yesterday. It was written by John H. Atwood, member of the committee from Kentucky and chairman of the committee on speakers.

Mr. Atwood's connection with the national campaign, his relations to William J. Bryan and the character of conversation reported to have been held over the long-distance telephone between Chicago and Lincoln and Chicago and New York, where Chairman Mack was yesterday, give promptly official form to the Atwood statement.

In many of the papers which printed the Cleveland article, which parades William H. Taft, an introductory note was presented explaining that the article was published through an arrangement made between Frederick S. Hastings, executor of the former president, and a literary agent, and that it was extremely doubtful that Mr. Cleveland had started work upon the two articles which were to have succeeded the first, as published Sunday.

Text of Atwood Reply.

The reply which Mr. Atwood gave out yesterday follows:

Never since Dr. Rufus Griswold betrayed the trust that was his as literary executor of Edgar Allan Poe and mutilated the memory of him whose literary representative he was, has there been such a flagrant betrayal of trust by one sustaining a fiduciary relation toward illustrious dead as when Mr. Frederick S. Hastings sold for money the fair fame of one who in his lifetime had been a great man. "The Grover Cleveland article" which has been exploited by the Republican National Committee was introduced by its publishers to lead the reading public to believe that if Mr. Cleveland were living today he would be one of Mr. Taft's political champions.

"It must be borne in mind that this article, conceding its unperverted authenticity, was written before the Republican National Convention; before the character of its delegates could have been known; before it was known that these delegates were so far from being untrammelled representatives of a free people as to be manipulated by the will of another; before the convention had refused to speak for honesty in elections by refusing to declare for pre-election publication of campaign contributions; before the convention promulgated socialism, by declaring that the government should go into the banking business, should establish postal savings banks.

Cites Honesty of Purpose. "I was not a great admirer of Grover Cleveland, but I always credited him with honesty of purpose in his private life and patriotic purpose in his official life, and the worst enemy of the dead president could not have more perfectly misrepresented his mental attitude toward public affairs than to proclaim that, if living, he would have advocated the candidacy of one who was arrayed as a leader against the party that had twice made him president; one who was standing on a platform outside the pale of common honesty; a platform that promulgated a political trust that had for its central thought a socialistic creed.

"For a party today that it will not proclaim the source of its campaign income is for that party to say that it expects income from sources that it dare not proclaim.

"Can anyone imagine Grover Cleveland, whose primal characteristic was honesty, advocating the election of a candidate who stood for admitted dishonesty of purpose?

"If the postal savings bank is established, the federal government goes into the banking business and socialism is just that, viz.: The introduction of the government into the field of private enterprise. Can anyone imagine that stern old individualist, Grover Cleveland, advocating

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Pains of Modern People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric acid circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ills. Paducah cures are the proof.

1. L. Davis, 219 Broadway, Paducah, Ky., says: "I was greatly benefited by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at DuBois Son & Co's drug store. I suffered from backache for some time but a short use of this remedy proved very satisfactory in relieving the trouble. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly to those afflicted in this way."

the election of one who stood for even semi-socialism?

Obligation Is Accepted. "In 1896 and 1900 Mr. Cleveland was silent, although it was recognized that he did not approve of all for which Democracy stood in those years but he recognized the obligation that rested upon him and saw clearly the path to propriety and these obligations pointed out. Does anyone who can lay claim at once to candor and an appreciation of Mr. Cleveland's character say that in the year when the national Democracy is united and his personal adherents have closed the ranks and eliminated all strife his voice would have been lifted for the creation of discord?

"To misconstrue the dead who have known naught but private life as a shameful thing; to misconstrue the dead whose life is a part of his country's history, and to exploit that misrepresentation as a political asset, is both a shameful and a wicked thing."

WOMAN'S WIT UNCERTAIN.

As When Wife Failed to Appreciate Husband's Pleasantry.

"Don't always rely upon the ready wit of a woman," said the man who is sometimes pleased to consider himself an oracle. "That ready witfulness is sometimes prone to get way off."

"For example, my wife and children had been staying in the country for several weeks and I was regular with my letters, as every loving husband should be. Finally, on the day before my wife was to start for home I concluded my letter to her with these words:

"This will be the last letter I will write to you for a long time."

"When I got down to my office the next morning I found a telegram from my wife waiting for me. 'What on earth do you mean?' read the dispatch.

"Later a registered letter came from her. She had blazed almost every line with tears. What it was all about I could not imagine.

"Then my telephone bell rang, and when I answered I heard my wife's voice speaking over long-distance phone.

"Oh, John," said she, 'is that really you? I thought you had committed suicide!'"—New York Sun.

Couldn't Find the Truth.

We are justly proud of our jury system, but the twelve "good men and true" are not always the wisest of mankind. At a recent session a prisoner was indicted for pocket-picking, and to most people in court the clearest possible case was made by the prosecution.

"Have you anything you would like to tell the jury before they retire?" said the Judge.

"Well, all I want to say is, I hope as 'ow they'll give me the benefit of the doubt," replied the prisoner, despondently.

"The jury considered their verdict; they were no little time over it. 'Can I assist you in any way, gentleman?' said the Judge, at last becoming impatient.

"We are almost agreed, me'nd," said the foreman. "But we can't quite understand what the doubt is the prisoner wishes us to give him the benefit of."

SCHOOL BONDS OF $100,000 WANTED

Need That Much Money to Pay Off Debts and Build.

Three Teachers Resign and Two Trustees Give Up Their Seats on the Board.

THERE IS NOT ENOUGH ROOM.

The school board received at its meeting last night to ask the citizens to vote on a bond issue of $100,000.

Instead of $50,000 as previously. The services of the law firm of Wheeler, Hughes & Berry will be employed by the board of education to draw up all necessary papers and make arrangements to put the $100,000 bond issue to a vote. Mr. Wheeler was present and advised the board to put to a vote the $100,000 bond issue instead of the $50,000, and instead of using all the money for building purposes, as the law so specifies, it should be used, take $20,000 to pay off the outstanding debt. In order to do this, the matter will have to be taken to court to be decided. The law so specifies that the money obtained from the issue of school bonds can be used only for building purposes and can not be used for paying salaries of school employees or for the maintenance of schools.

The school board has a debt of $20,000 which must be paid if the schools are to continue, and the only way for it to be paid is to take the money out of the $100,000 bond issue if it passes. If the bond issue does not pass, the schools will be closed after the first term of school. The only way the $20,000 can be taken out of the bond issue is for the courts to give it legally.

The women of Paducah will be asked to make a house to house canvass and explain just what the bonds are to be used for and how they are to be used. The bonds will be used only as they are needed, and value will be received for every dollar paid out. The colored citizens will be canvassed so that there will not remain any doubt in their minds as to which use the bonds will be put. Meetings will be held for the same purpose, and a number of Paducah's best citizens have volunteered to speak at these gatherings and tell their neighbors the condition of the schools and impress it upon them that the bond issue is absolutely necessary to keep the schools going in this city.

Need More Room.

Superintendent Carnegie informed the board that it probably would be necessary to put up another building and maybe two buildings for the reason that the last legislature passed a law and intended to have it rigidly enforced that all children 11 years of age and under must attend the public schools and the children between the ages of 14 and 16 years must have the consent of their parents before they are allowed to remain out of school. Professor Carnegie counted on 500 more children of school age that should attend. If 500 more pupils are added to the school enrollment it is certain that new buildings will be needed to take care of them, as last year there was no room in any of the buildings for more pupils.

Another question brought up in the meeting, making the bond issue absolutely necessary, was that the schools must continue in session for six months before they receive the $21,000 the state of Kentucky allows the Paducah schools. The board has figured it out that if the proposed bond issue does not carry in the November election, it will be impossible for the schools to continue in session. Dr. H. P. Sights was present and in a short talk impressed it upon the minds of the members of the board that sewer connections at the Lee building are needed. Dr. Sights told how the unsanitary condition of the Lee building would lead to the sickness and probably the death of some of the school children at that building. Again several of the members hesitated to make the improvement, as the board has already borrowed all the money it may by law, and the improvements now made will fall on the members for payment unless aid is found some place. Mr. Walston objected very much to have this responsibility fall on the trustees, but Dr. Sights volunteered to take Trustee Walston's responsibility on himself, so the vote was taken and Trustees Clements and Karnes voted no. Trustees Bondurant, Hyatt, Hills, Kelley, Murray, Walston and Maxwell voted yes. The committee on sanitation with the secretary, was ordered to connect the Lee building with the sewer on the best terms possible.

Three Resign.

The resignations of three of the teachers were handed in and accepted by the board. They were I. T. Givens, principal of the Franklin building; Otis Elliot, assistant in science and mathematics in the high school, and Miss Marie Wilcox, second grade teacher at the Jefferson building. Mr. Givens and Mr. Elliot have both received better positions and Miss Wilcox will soon be married. Mr. M. E. Lyon was elected to fill the vacancy at the Franklin school, but as to the vacancy in the high school, Professor Carnegie stated that he had been unable to find anyone to accept this position at $70 per month that could be recommended. He could get men that were young and inexperienced, but none that were suitable for room instruction. The board not being able to raise the salaries any, decided to leave the matter in the hands of Professor Carnegie to fill the vacancy in the high school and the one in the Jefferson school. Superintendent Carnegie has written, telegraphed and telephoned to all parts of Kentucky and neighboring states for a high school teacher, but so far he has met with no success.

The two trustees from the Sixth ward, which is in Mechanicsburg, tendered their resignations, taking effect at once. Mr. Morris resigned because he has moved out of the ward and Mr. J. C. Farley resigned because he was unable to attend the meetings and take part. The appointment of the two trustees to fill the vacancies was postponed till the next regular meeting.

The board of examiners notified Superintendent Carnegie that they were ready to examine the teachers, 8 to 14 of them every afternoon till the examinations were completed. Superintendent Carnegie is making out the list and notifying the teachers, as to what time they shall go to be examined.

Several children were granted a transfer of school houses, because in bad weather they could not go to the school house in whatever district they lived.

The finance committee reported expenses since last month $799.72 with a balance on hand September 1 of $7,752.58.

A note, amounting to $1,500, due September 3 at the First National bank was ordered paid.

A resolution fixing the tuition to be paid by pupils living outside the city limits and attending the public city schools was adopted.

The report of the building committee was received and filed.

The board adjourned until Friday night, when they will hold a meeting in the rooms of the building association to adopt the minutes so as the attorney can go ahead with preparations for the bond issue.

Remaking My Hand.

Consul Albert Halstead of Birmingham states that the invention of a new British ice-making machine is reported which works on the principle that water will freeze when evaporated rapidly by a vacuum pump and a powerful absorbent, such as sulphuric acid. It is said that the machine can be worked by hand and will turn out carafes of lead water at the rate of one in three minutes and blocks of ice weighing about one pound in twenty minutes. The apparatus, consisting of the absorber and the carafe, or the ice mould, are rocked by means of a hand wheel and crank, which serves also as to create the vacuum. This apparatus is made at Reading, England.—Consular Reports.

FLURRY IS FAULT OF RAILROADS

Blames Transportation Boomers, for Recent Stringency.

Criticizes Management and Declares New Equipment Not Justified by Business.

SEES A WASTE OF MILLIONS

Railroad expansion carried to an extreme was largely responsible for the recent business depression, according to Richard T. Crane.

Mr. Crane expresses his opinions on the flurry from this new and startling viewpoint in an article in the Valley World, a monthly magazine published by his firm, the Crane company.
Severely scoring the railroad boomers, Mr. Crane declares that the railroads have wasted millions in needless extension of their mileage and have purchased vast quantities of equipment which proper management would have rendered unnecessary.

"Fundamentally back of such depressions as that of the latter part of 1907 is the boomer; and it is a significant fact that he is most strikingly identified with railroad building," says Mr. Crane. "The railroad boomer seems to have acted on the assumption that the railroads must have hundreds of millions of dollars every year that had to be spent on railroad building and equipment."
"Dazzled by the glowing pictures painted by the boomer, the railroad corporations have anticipated imaginary future requirements and have gone ahead extending old lines, projecting and laying new ones, ordering cars and rolling stock without any apparent thought as to whether the present or prospective transportation needs of the country warranted the additions."

Manufacturers Are Victims.
"Naturally this feverish activity in railroad building led manufacturers in every line connected with railroad equipment to increase their productive capacity. There was sudden expansion all along the lines, and the coming of the financial stringency found the manufacturers—especially those producing iron and steel and railroad equipment—expanded fully 25 per cent beyond the capacity demanded by normal business conditions."

"Consequently, we find today that manufacturers in all these lines have a great amount of surplus capacity, representing millions of unproductive capital."

"Very largely this railroad building and expanding has been unnecessary. For example, several lines have been projected and are building across the continent, evidently in the fancy that San Francisco would have an earthquake every year, and therefore would need many railroads to supply materials for rebuilding."

"At the door of the boomer must be laid several colossal blunders that the railroads have made, in addition to the chief blunder of building wholly needless miles of new track."

"One has been the great increase

THIRD TO FORCE IT.

Thought System Would Soon Tolerate Coffee.

A Boston lady tried to convince herself that she could get used to coffee, and finally found it was the stronger, she writes:
"When a child, being delicate and nervous, I was not allowed coffee. But since reaching womanhood I began its use, and as the habit grew on me, I frequently endeavored to break myself of it, because of its evident bad effects."

"With me the most noticeable effect of drinking coffee was palpitation of the heart. This was at times truly alarming, and my face would flush uncomfortably and maintain its vivid hue for some time."

"I argued that my system would soon accustom itself to coffee, and continued to use it, although I had a suspicion that it was affecting my eye-sight, also. The kidneys early showed effects of coffee, as I found by having it off for a few days, when the trouble abated."

"Finally a friend enticed my attention to Postum. At first I did not like it, but when made right—billed 15 minutes until dark and rich—I soon found Postum was just what I wanted. No flushing of the face, no palpitation, no discomfort or inconvenience after drinking it."

"Of course all this was not felt in a week or two weeks, but within that time I can truthfully say a marked difference had taken place, and a great deal of my nervousness had vanished."

"At present time my health is excellent, due to a continued use of Postum, with a general observance of proper hygiene. Of nothing am I more convinced than that if I had continued drinking coffee I should be today little less than a nervous wreck, and possibly blind."

"There's a Reason."

Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in packages.
Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

in sidings and the ordering of thousands of freight cars for which there was no necessity under proper management of the roads. The chief object of these sidings and cars seems to have been that the cars might be loaded with merchandise and kept idle on the side-tracks instead of being drawn as quickly as possible to their destinations. Apparently the purpose of the siding is to enable the railroad to take double the time to transport freight that should be required in normal times.

Cites Another Blunder.
"So we have another blunder in the way freight is handled. The empty and idle cars as well as the loaded and idle cars on the sidings throughout the country seem to be forgotten, and there goes out a demand from the roads for still more cars and more sidings, resulting in the piling up of still more merchandise, until the cars make no more mileage than in usual times."

"What is the natural result of such a situation? There comes a halt in business on the road, and the merchants stop ordering. Then the railroads remember the side-tracked, long-delayed merchandise, rush it through and dump it on the coast merchants at a time when the most active demand for it has fallen off or ceased. The merchants are severely overstocked, the factories producing the goods in the east shut down or reduce their forces and hundreds of workers are made idle."

Mr. Crane points to the Gould lines to illustrate his point.
"Gould wished to get to the Pacific coast, notwithstanding there were more than enough existing lines for the traffic," he says. "He reached the end of his borrowing and several of his lines passed under the axe of the courts."

"It is too bad that the public will not supply such men as Gould with money to continue their reckless building," Mr. Crane continues, sarcastically. "Certainly it is an oversight if the public cannot see that there is a good chance to make a permanent investment."

"It is also a good opportunity for railroad calamity howlers to blame the public for not being more liberal with such men as Gould in supplying them with funds, and also to lay the blame for Gould's misfortune to the antagonistic position of the public toward railroads and also to railroad legislation."

Scores Rate Advance.
Referring to the railroads' contented general advance in freight rates, Mr. Crane says:
"To my mind this is the most stupid, idle proposal that ever came from live men. The railroads today have the same rates they have had for some time, and no better off than most of the country's industries. Yet they propose to tax these industries for their own benefit."

NEW STYLE TELESCOPE.

Reflector for Prof. Wood's New Model Will Be Liquid Mercury.

Calling a new type of reflecting telescope which is being built for him a small working model, although its diameter will be half as great as that of the big Yerkes telescope, Prof. Robert Wood, of Johns Hopkins University, declares that if it gives satisfaction he will construct a giant instrument of this kind.
The builders of the Lick and Yerkes telescopes are making the model from drawings by Prof. Wood, and he expects to receive it soon at his private laboratory in Easthampton, Long Island.

Popularly described, this new type of reflecting telescope may be said to consist of a flat circular basin filled with mercury and set in motion by means of an electric motor. By altering the speed of rotation the focal length of the instrument can be varied at will, but Prof. Wood says that it is impossible now to tell what diameters are attainable in this way.

The basic ideas of the new instrument is said to have been suggested before this. The action of centrifugal force makes the surface of the mercury assume the form of a concave paraboloid which brings the rays of light to a focus in the same way as the concave silvered mirror of a reflecting telescope.

The difficulty hitherto has been in obtaining a rotation of the disc without jars from the rotating mechanism. Theoretically the instrument is perfect, for the reflecting surface should be far more accurate in form than that of a ground and polished metal or glass reflector. The slightest tremor or jar, however, destroys it by forming waves and ripples in the mercury. Prof. Wood has found that there are three distinct conditions which must be fulfilled if a perfect surface is to be obtained, and he has already had a seven-inch mirror in successful operation. The definition is not quite as good as that obtained with a lens or a solid mirror, but the trouble appears to be due to the fact that the instrument was made on a lathe of

A Fireless Locomotive.

Special Agent Charles Carden of the United States revenue cutter service sends from Berlin an account of the fireless locomotives now used in Germany, and which, he thinks, would be of great service in the United States. He says:

"The Germans are turning out a fireless locomotive, which in point of simplicity, ingenuity, and economy is thoroughly characteristic of their nation.
"I have had occasion to ride on one of these fireless locomotives, and its simplicity can be understood when I state that in the cab the mechanism consisted merely of a throttle bar, reversing gear, and brake. Only one man was required to run the machine thus saving the expense of a fireman.
"As the name implies, the locomotive is fireless. There is no fire-box. In general appearance the machine resembles the ordinary type of locomotive minus the firebox, funnel, and sundry other attachments.
"It must be understood that this type of locomotive is unsuitable for uninterrupted railway service, but is essentially a yard shunting engine. In other words, it must keep near its base of supply, and this base of supply is the boiler of some local power station. At this local power station the tank of the locomotive is filled with steam, and on this steam supplied the engine will run from four to five hours doing ordinary switching work."

"When I entered the cab of one of these switching engines the steam gauge showed a reading of forty-five pounds. I was informed that two hours had elapsed since the boiler was charged, and that steam was taken on at 170 pounds pressure. The chief engineer of the works stated that the boiler could 'hump' back to its station even with steam pressure as low as one-half an atmosphere."

TERRIBLE CRIME AGAINST CHILD

Fisherman Accused by Eight
Year Old Girl.

He is Held to Grand Jury of Charge
By Police Judge D. A. Cross
Today.

DETAILS ARE MOST HORRIBLE

John Thomas, alias Thompson, a white fisherman about 30 years old, who resides on a shanty boat at the foot of Boyd street, was held over to the grand jury without bail this morning in police court on a charge of criminal assault. It is alleged that he mistreated Annie Belle Augustus, the 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Lucy Sexton, who lived formerly on North Sixth street.

In May the girl said she was playing in the sand at Hill & Karnes' brickyard when she was caught by a man, whom she identified as Thomas, and led upstairs to a small room in the brickyard. She said she was placed on the floor, that he held his hand over her mouth and accomplished his fiendish purpose. Being cautioned not to make a remark of what had happened she returned home.

In the course of a week Mrs. Sexton noticed signs of mistreatment, but the girl denied it. She was taken ill and confessed to her mother under promise that she would not be punished, and told the story. A physician was called and he found that the young girl was afflicted with a loathsome disease and there were evidences of mistreatment. Not desiring any notoriety the mother did not want to prosecute the case until Patrolman Fred Merry learned the facts.

Evidence to make out a strong case was offered by the commonwealth, but the defense did not offer testimony and Thomas was held over without bail. Patrolman Toke Owen arrested Thomas yesterday afternoon and placed him in jail quietly.

NO ADMISSION

WILL BE CHARGED TO GROUNDS
AT MAXON MILLS.

Plans for Big Celebration Are Being Carried Out by the Committee
In Charge.

Through an error it was stated that admission would be charged to the picnic grounds at Maxon Mills on Labor Day, but there will not be any charge for admission or for ice water, and the charges for refreshments and dinner will be nominal. The Central Labor Union and the Farmers Union are making efforts to make it a day of pleasure for every working man, and have not gone into it for making money. It will be a day that labor will be recognized, and the men that work with his hands will be honored.

Next Friday the arrangement committee will leave for the grounds and will remain the greater part of the time in arranging every detail for the big celebration. The list of prizes has been completed for the races and contests, and the prizes are on exhibit in the windows of the Grand Leader. The prizes are: Best lady waiter—a handsome jewelry box; best lady two-stepper—a back comb; race for girls under 18 years—a shirt waist set; men's race of fifty yards—a silk sign-wheelbarrow race—a set of cuff buttons—a fat man's race—a shirt.

Word has been received that a large crowd will come from St. Louis on the excursion, and the Paducah workers will enjoy the day with the union men from Missouri. Good train service will be had between Paducah and the picnic grounds, and there will be no delays in purchasing tickets as a special office will be established at Eleventh street and Broadway.

The winner of the married woman's race will receive a mirror for the dressing table.

"But," exclaimed the man of delicate sensibilities, "will your conscience permit you to do as you suggest?" "Look here, my friend," answered the New York politician, "I am accustomed to be boss, even of my own conscience."—Washington Star.

The towboat Harth arrived from the mines this morning with a tow of loaded fuel flats for the West Kentucky Coal company.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS CLUBS COMPLAINT

Finance Committee to Take Charge of Work.

Mechanicsburg Will Have Branch at Main Bryan Club Over the Island Creek.

FIFTY-FIVE WERE PRESENT.

Fifty-five Democrats, including 25 candidates and office holders, attended the meeting of the Bryan club last night at the city hall. Several hot speeches were delivered by prominent Democrats, who reproached the voters for not contributing to the campaign fund, and steps were taken by the members to arouse some enthusiasm in the club.

At 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Col. Joseph Potter, vice president, although the members were somewhat slow to arrive. County Judge R. T. Lightfoot, president of the club, arrived a few minutes after 8 o'clock, but refused to interrupt Mr. Potter by supplanting him. County Attorney Alben Barkley arose and said: "In order to get some enthusiasm into this club, I move that the chair appoint a committee to secure some noted speakers, who will put life into the organization. We do not want dry meetings to continue, and what we want is some enthusiasm. After the motion Colonel Potter appointed Col. Gus Singleton, W. V. Eaton, J. S. Ross and A. W. Barkley.

Attorney J. S. Ross introduced Col. W. S. Stone, who made a short speech in which he eulogized William J. Bryan, and gave optimistic views of the party's chances in November. Police Judge D. A. Cross stated that he had talked with men of the southern part of the city and he made a motion that a branch of the Bryan club be established in Mechanicsburg, and the meeting be held Thursday night. After a second was secured Mr. J. W. Barkley arose and said: "I think it would be better to get some life in this club before we establish a branch station." The chair appointed Judge D. A. Cross, Councilman R. J. Wilson and County Attorney Alben Barkley to arrange for the branch club.

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot gained the floor and in a vigorous speech spoke of the necessity of the people contributing to the Democratic campaign fund. He contrasted the $1,100 raised by a newspaper in Owensboro in four hours with the $71.50 raised here in a month. "The Democrats ought to feel ashamed of such a showing, and I feel sorry that I have not contributed," stated the county judge as he handed over $5. Attorney Ross made a second vigorous talk, and he said that the Democratic party had been indifferent to the campaign contributions. In a general speech he spoke of the virtues of the party, but condemned the members for not contributing. The motion was made to pass around the hat and several Democrats marched up to the secretary and deposited $1 each.

County Judge Lightfoot gained the floor again, and seconded the remarks that had been made, and said that it was a shame for the Democratic party to publish such a little sum of campaign contributions. Judge Lightfoot made the motion that a finance committee be appointed to arrange for the finances of the committee. F. E. Graves, Col. Gus Singleton and W. V. Eaton were named by the chair.

County Attorney Barkley introduced Mr. Robert Scott, who proved to be the drator of the evening, and made a vigorous speech against the policy of the Republican parties and its candidate. Vice President Joseph Potter endorsed the remarks that were made, and then the meeting adjourned for two weeks.

It is probable that steps may be taken for a new meeting place as several members remarked of the dim light in the police court room. There are three small electric lights in the room.

Leslie Jones Throws Robert Bower
In Ten Minutes After Hard Tussle.

REEDER WINS ON THE POINTS.

Before a crowd of athletic enthusiasts the Paducah Athletic club held a series of wrestling bouts last night in the gymnasium of the city building. There were three bouts, and the young athletes tugged for many minutes before falls were secured. The sport was fast and clean and was enjoyed. The first bout was between Leslie Jones, champion of Paducah, and Robert Bower. Bower was strong, but did not know the five points and in 10 minutes Jones had him on the mat. After another 8 minutes of fine work, Jones replaced Bower on the mat and retained his title.

The second go was between Claude Reeder, lightweight champion, and Thomas Cathey. Reeder secured the first fall in 11 minutes, and then they went together for the second fall. For 51 minutes they tugged and rolled, but neither could win. Cathey was given a chance to get a good hold, but seeing both were tired out, the referee gave the decision to Reeder on one fall, and points he made.

Oran Bell and Robert Bower were in the third bout, and they wrestled for 25 minutes without securing a fall. Both were well tired out and the bout was called a draw with the promise to let them renew it at the next bout.
